

From claims to proof.

A buyer-first investigation of the market, sales reality, user experience, and measurable work behind Nice Right.

The site is context.

It tells us what Nice Right currently says, owns, shows, and asks people to do.

● FACT

Observed directly in the live site, repository, or user-supplied context.

● PUBLISHED CLAIM

Something Nice Right says. It requires proof before becoming a central promise.

● HYPOTHESIS

A plausible interpretation that needs buyer or behavioral evidence.

● BLOCKED

A consequential decision we should not make responsibly yet.

Can a home-service owner see themselves in the proof— or only in the promise?

Target stated

“For owners who already run a home service business.”

Proof shown

Healthcare real estate, Northern Trust, GreenPill Network, and four non-trade testimonials.

Numbers worth investigating.

290%

Traffic growth for a home-service company. User context identifies the candidate as Master Scoopers. GA verification pending.

● CLAIM / PILOT

12^x

More leads from the same site. Need baseline, timeframe, event definition, and attribution.

● CLAIM

80%

Time saved with workflow automation. Need process baseline, measurement method, and client source.

● CLAIM

Three offer types. One next step.

The live page presents Foundation, Experiment, and Partnership, but does not show numeric pricing. Every path converges on a free 30-minute Cal.com call.

Digital Foundation	Findable and credible · typically 4–8 weeks
Growth Experiment	One lever tested and proven · first results in 30–45 days
Growth Partnership	Ongoing strategy and building · no stated price

NEED TO LEARN

Is a call the right first commitment?

Turn the portfolio into a proof system.

Find every property

Sites, GA4 properties, streams, Search Console, CRM, forms, call tracking, and project dates.

Reconstruct the change

Baseline, comparison period, intervention, mechanism, result, and confounders.

Make claim cards

Exact metric, denominator, timeframe, attribution, allowed language, caveats, and assets.

Choose portfolio pieces

Evidence strength × buyer relevance × story quality × visual assets × permission.

CANDIDATE SOURCE OF 290% CLAIM

The first case study should be earned from the data.

Master Scoopers is a real Chicago-area service business with an identifiable site and a candidate analytics history. It is the right pilot before we make any portfolio promise.

COLLECT

GA4 property and stream

Date range, users, sessions, landing pages, source/medium, engagement, and key events.

MATCH

Project/change timeline

Launch dates, SEO/content changes, campaigns, tracking changes, seasonality, and business context.

PROVE

Claim language

What the data supports, what it only correlates with, what needs Search Console/CRM/call data, and what must stay private.

Useful work must survive checks.

QUESTION	REQUIRED EVIDENCE	PASS CONDITION
Is this a real result?	GA4/CRM/Search Console data + source artifact	Attributed or qualified
Is this the right buyer?	Buyer-proximate evidence + disconfirming search	No synthetic persona
Does the offer make sense?	Buyer explanation or real commitment	Uncoached clarity
Does the UX work?	Task walkthrough + relevant prospect testing	Action without coaching
Is the visual direction useful?	Distinct visual hypothesis tied to experience	Not a palette swap

Inventory the truth.

Verify the analytics path for Master Scoopers, then enumerate the properties across both Google Analytics accounts. We will build the portfolio evidence matrix from there.
